Northwest Partnership Internship Project – Environmental Health: Centralized Intern Training

Progress Report, March 7, 2008

- Goals:
- 1) To prepare an Environmental Health major for the Public Health workforce by facilitating Centralized Intern Training prior to accepting a full-time position at a local Health Department.
 - 2) To give the intern advanced preparation prior to graduation from a university with an Environmental Health major by linking the student with a local health department for the purpose of observation of and interaction with local health department staff.
 - 3) To gain valuable insight into the Centralized Intern Training as it applies to Environmental Health graduates.
 - 4) To provide supporting data to initiate changes at the local and state level that will potentially increase numbers of qualified Environmental Health graduates across the state.
 - 5) To assess and report any cost savings or benefits with this method of offering advanced CIT training prior to the student formally entering the Public Health workforce.
